Is AAL Right for Me?

The pressure to deliver fast, influential decisions often in unpredictable and complex situations can be pretty daunting, especially if you feel that you cannot share these challenges in your company. Now you don't have to do it alone!

AAL gives you a unique opportunity to come together with business leaders from different companies at similar levels of seniority and work on your specific challenges using a unique format where actions, dilemmas and solutions are systematically explored so that you get direct and concrete help in your decision making process.

What is AAL?

AAL (Audio Action Learning) is a highly effective program designed for Business Executives who want to examine their leadership and management challenges in a structured and confidential way with a dedicated group of non-competing leaders.

The program includes 4 sessions of 3 hours each with a pre-program briefing session of 1 hour, spread over a period of 6-8 months. Groups of 6 Executives from a diverse range of industries across the world will meet remotely with an AAL facilitator using a simple teleconference platform. Sessions are scheduled according to participants' availability.

AAL Is Strictly Confidential

We maintain a clear contract of confidentiality so you remain in full control of your experience.
